Session 1: “Tracing Your Immigrant Ancestors Online”

By using online databases, it’s now easier than ever before to identify when your ancestors immigrated, the ships they sailed on, and where they were born.

Session 2: “The German Connection: How to Track Down Your German Immigrant Ancestor”

Online resources, including passenger departure and arrival lists, passports and permissions to emigrate, make it easier than ever before to determine when your immigrant ancestors came over and to identify and locate their hometowns.

Session 3: “Genealogy Hacks: Tricks to Crack the Top Genealogy Websites”

If you regularly return to the same Web sites and repeat the same old searches without finding much, it’s time to give your search an overhaul. Get out of that rut - and finally find your ancestors - with these simple "genealogy hacks" you will begin to effectively mine the Internet’s most-frequented family history stops.

Conference Speaker

Rick Crume is a contributing editor for Family Tree Magazine. He has also written for Family Chronicle, Internet Genealogy, Discovering Family History and the National Genealogical Society's NewsMagazine, as well as genealogical journals in Canada and Great Britain.

The author of Plugging Into Your Past: How to Find Real Family History Records Online, he specializes in online research, genealogy software and British genealogy. Since he began researching his family history at age 14, Rick has traced his ancestry back to the 1600s and earlier in the United States, Canada, Great Britain, Germany and the Netherlands.
